Subject: Solaris' Response to Allegations Concerning Purported Violence in Shuar Territory Unrelated to Mining Activities

Dear Mr. Barboza Lopez & Ms. Vitória Dell'Aringa Rocha,

In response to your inquiry concerning the recent accusations directed at Solaris Resources Inc., regarding acts of violence unrelated to our mining activities, we wish to clarify our position and commitment to constructive engagement.

The allegations, as outlined in various media outlets including Pie de Página, TeleAmazonas, and KCH Comunicación, depict a situation stemming from a land dispute in which our involvement is nonexistent. We anticipate a prompt resolution to this matter. However, we vehemently denounce the dissemination of false information aimed at inciting social unrest, particularly when mining activities are inaccurately attributed as the root cause.

It is imperative to underscore our profound respect for indigenous organizations, their internal governance structures, and decision-making processes. Our commitment extends to fostering constructive dialogue with all stakeholders, including the Shuar population in Morona Santiago. We are dedicated to ensuring that the benefits of our mining developments, particularly the Warintza project, are equitably distributed among Shuar communities and the broader populace of Morona Santiago.

We remain steadfast in our dedication to responsible corporate citizenship and collaborative engagement with local communities.

Enclosed below is a summary of Solaris' responses, as requested by both the Business and Human Rights Resource Centre and the TSX Compliance and Disclosure department, pertaining to the allegations presented by The Shuar Arutam Peoples Association (PSHA) during 2020, 2021, and 2023.

We take this opportunity to address the accusations raised by Public Services International (PSI), the National Confederation of Public Servants of Ecuador (CONASEP), and the National Federation of Workers of the Provincial Governments of Ecuador (FENOGOPRE) regarding Ecuador's adherence to the Indigenous and Tribal Peoples Convention of 1989. Emphasizing several key points, we highlight the positive impact of the Report of the Director-General titled "Fifth Supplementary Report: Report of the Committee set up to examine the representation alleging non-observance by Ecuador of the Indigenous and Tribal Peoples Convention, 1989 (No. 169), on mining legislation and the recognition of the legality of concessions granted by the Ecuadorian State. This acknowledgment underscores our commitment to operating within legal frameworks and fostering responsible mining practices that respect indigenous rights and sovereignty.

Additionally, we acknowledge the implementation of a pilot plan within the Warintza Project aimed at identifying consultation subjects and assessing prior consultation mechanisms. Furthermore, we recognize and value the Committee's considerations regarding the establishment of a "Strategic Alliance" with communities, viewing it as a mechanism to ensure continuous consultation and obtain social consent. This initiative does not substitute the prior consultation process but complements it in facilitating dialogue and agreement between our company and affected communities. Through these efforts, we aim to uphold the principles of transparency, respect, and collaboration in our interactions with indigenous communities and stakeholders.
